FÁILTE GO DTÍ AN LATIN QUARTER GIN FEST!

WELCOME TO THE LATIN QUARTER GIN FEST!

Attention Gin Drinkers! From Thursday 6th – Sunday 9th June 2019 you are invited to experience The Latin Quarter Gin Fest, a 4 day fun-filled celebration of all things related to Gin & Tonic throughout the bars of The Latin Quarter. With the pinnacle of the festival being World Gin Day on Saturday 8th June!

Promising a weekend of gin-joyment, a range of events will be taking place including; A Gin Village, Gin Cruises, Master Classes and Tastings, Gin Forage, Food & Gin Pairings, Gin Cocktails & Competitions, New Gin launches, Gin Experimentals and much more appealing to every G&T drinker!

The focus of our festival is to encourage people to try a variety of gin and tonic brands available on the market, from Irish to International creations. There is also a focus on the education side of how gin is produced, learning about the perfect serve when choosing garnishes and how tonics enhance the flavour of your drinks. In essence you'll be a 'ginus' at the end of the festival.

Located in the heart of the city, The Latin Quarter is often referred to as the cultural hub of Galway and is home to many of the city's quirkiest and best-known pubs, restaurants, shops and hotels. The area also boasts medieval pedestrianised cobblestone streets that offer a unique festive-like atmosphere, providing the heartbeat to the City of the Tribes.

It's the third year of the festival, without the support of festival partners, the commitment of the bars, restaurants and businesses in The Latin Quarter and our dedicated committee working together to add another celebration to our renowned city of festivals! The Latin Quarter Gin Fest will be celebrating World Gin Day with the return of 'The Gin Village' from 5-7pm in The Quays Bar! Think live DJ, and over 20 pop up gin bars that you can stroll through and sample a range of G&Ts!

1520 Quay Street, The Latin Quarter

Located in the heart of the city and inspired by the origins of pop culture, 1520 Quay Street embodies the energy and unique atmosphere of Galway. This newly renovated bar provides customers with good food, delicious cocktails and local artists who entertain visitors to and residents of this great city alike.

1520 Quay Street is eclectic and different, with a touch of traditional Irish pub and a dash of everything else! The large front bar features big tables for dining with a group, as well as snugs and high stools for enjoying a pint or some pub grub. There's plenty of tv's to enjoy all the top sporting action and a large screen for the big games. Don't worry there's plenty of room for dancing too when bands take to the bandstand. Or, if you'd prefer a few quiet pints with your mates, the Penney Bar at the back has comfy chairs and a warm, cosy feeling.

Their menu is full of top-quality gourmet pub grub with options like nachos, sliders, and stew, which all pair perfectly with a cold pint and a delicious gin. Time to tuck in!

Come to Eat Stay to Party!

CAVA 1 Middle St, Galway, The Latin Quarter

Situated on Middle Street in Galway city, the award-winning Cava Bodega showcases the very best of Spanish food and wine. Often referred to as the best tapas in Ireland and with an extensive menu of 80 tapas, there really is something for everyone.

-  @cavagalway
-  @cava_tapas_bar
-  CavaTapasBar

Cava Bodega's atmosphere is colourful, warm and lively and is great for groups as well as those looking for a romantic dinner for two. A popular local restaurant for the last 10 years, tourists and food critics are also singing its praise. Open 7 days a week until late!

FREENEYS 19 High Street, The Latin Quarter

Situated right in the heart of Galway City on High Street, Freeneys is home to one of the largest selections of gin in The Latin Quarter.

Family owned and operated since 1938, Freeneys is a great place for locals and tourists alike. Make sure to pop in during The Latin Quarter Gin Fest and sample some of the great choice of gins. As recently as 1976 it was still a pub and a General Merchant, acting as a grocers' shop for the locals and supplying everything and anything to the many fishing trawlers in nearby Galway docks. They packed their own sugar and tea, bottled their own Jameson and Powers whiskeys from the cask, but as the small grocers trade changed with the arrival of supermarkets, the grocery shop was converted to a fishing tackle shop.

JURYS INN Quay Street, The Latin Quarter

Located on the busy hub of Quay Street with a beautiful view overlooking Galway Bay, Jurys Inn is perfectly situated in the heart of our historic city centre. With the Spanish Arch and Medieval City Wall just a two minute walk away, they are perfectly placed for guests wanting transport links, retail therapy and historic city attractions!

For those seeking to immerse themselves in Galway's bustling cultural hub look no further. Shop Street is bursting with shops, nightlife, restaurants and bars. The vibrant Latin Quarter is loved by both tourists and locals, offering a unique atmosphere you'll only find in Galway.

Jurys Inn is the ideal starting point for your tour of Galway. Features 130 stylish rooms, Jurys Inn provide their guests with the ultimate comfort away from home.

Jusys Inn is also home to their stylish on-site bar for those wishing to relax with a beverage after exploring the city centre or a long day of business. Peruse their bar menu for a gin of choice, and pair with one of their delicious meals including horseshoe gammon to classic burgers.

MARTINES RESTAURANT 21 Quay Street, The Latin Quarter

A family-run restaurant based on Quay Street since 1902, Martine's have a long history of looking after customers and the tastiest of local food, sourced from nearby land and sea.

Customer service is an inherited trait that they pass on to their team in the restaurant and they strive to make every customer feel as welcomed as Nanny Mac did all those years ago.

The team at Martine's believe in local Irish produce prepared simply using traditional and modern techniques from home and around the world, and with something to suit everyone on the menu, a visit here is a must.

Cocktails are a speciality in Martine's so call in for a bite to eat over The Latin Quarter Gin Fest weekend or perhaps a well deserved Gin Martini!

PÁLÁS AND MERROW 15 Merchants Road, The Latin Quarter

The latest addition to the Latin Quarter, Pálás is a three screen cinema which showcases an eclectic programme of Irish and international film, complete with a lively bar and an award-winning restaurant, Merrow, all a stone's throw from Spanish Arch.

Drop into the bright ground floor restaurant to discover our contemporary, seasonal menu sourced from local produce and inspired by the creativity of our tight knit team, as well as the surrounding landscape of Galway county. Breakfast, lunch and dinner is served throughout the week from 10am, with brunch on weekends from 10am to 5pm.

And in the first floor bar, you'll find a carefully curated list of cocktails, spirits, Old and New World wines, beers, craft brews (and plenty of gin of course!), throughout the day and night. Our bar is an event venue in itself, with table quizzes, karaoke, doggy brunches and live music occurring regularly.

Be sure to pop in any time, and stay tuned to our social media for everything coming up in Pálás & Merrow!

THE BUNCH OF GRAPES 2 High Street, The Latin Quarter

Located on High Street in the centre of the City, this immaculately clean pub is a treasure trove of old artefacts and a Pub Guide favourite. An often overlooked venue due to its position beside many larger pubs, the Bunch of Grapes has a loyal following especially among older professionals. The walls are adorned with lots of items from the pasts and symbols of old Galway.

The Bunch of Grapes has a small seating area outside on High Street which is a great place to be on a sunny day. They also serve delicious sandwiches using bread from a local bakery or you can go upstairs to the separate cafe. The "Bunch" was opened in the 1980s during an era of regeneration in the City centre and was named after a pub in London which the owner had managed. It has stood the test of time looks like it will be around for a long time to come.

The building itself is in a row dating from the early 1800s when they were built on the site of a former school. Many businesses have traded from here in the 200 years since including Campbells's general store, Curran's pub and Egan's pub.

THE DAIL BAR 42 Middle Street, The Latin Quarter

Often referred to as your friendly local in the city, The Dail Bar is located in the heart of Galway's Latin Quarter.

A trendy bar for both locals and visitors to the city, its one of the city's most popular party venues with live music and a late bar nightly. Sample their extensive gin selection, where the team are always happy make a recommendation, right down to the choice of tonic and garnish.

While their cocktail selection is a must try! Serving a tempting lunch and dinner menu, it promises to be a highlight for all your gin fest socialising!

MICIL DISTILLERY

— Six generations and 170 years in the making —

My name is Pádraic O Griallais, and I'm a 6th generation distiller from Connemara. Micil Distillery is named in honour of my great-great-great grandfather, Micil Mac Chearra, who began producing poitín in 1848. My family have been distilling here on the shores of Galway Bay ever since, carefully following Micil's unique recipes using grain and local botanicals. Micil Distillery is the first legal distillery in Galway in over 100 years. We distil now the same way we've always done, by hand and in small batches, using local botanicals and unique family recipes. We produce a range of traditional poitíns and the award winning Micil Irish Gin. In Micil's words: "Sláinte mhaith!" (To good health)
